

Ruth Bascom Riverbank Trail System

Points of Interest

Alton Baker Park

This regional park offers a variety of recreational activities including Pre's Trail, a 4-mile jogging path; a three-mile long waterway ideal for canoeing; landscaped gardens; a boat launch; an amphitheater; a dog off-leash area; and a BMX bicycle track. The park has many acres of natural areas preserved for passive recreation and as a natural resource.

Delta Ponds

A natural area comprised of ponds and wetlands. Wildlife viewing opportunities abound.

Island Park

This Willamalane Park and Recreation District park is located at the east end of the North Bank Trail in Springfield on the Willamette River.

Maurie Jacobs Park

A soccer field and a play area grace this park which connects the South Bank Trail and the West Bank Trail. A wheelchair accessible fishing platform extends out over the river and offers excellent wildlife and river viewing.

Owen Rose Garden

More than three hundred different varieties of roses bloom in this park located at the north end of Jefferson Street. The garden's peak display period is the second and third week of June.

River Edge Public Plaza

Adjacent to EWEB, a viewing platform at the riverside, a walk-through fountain, seating, and bike racks provide a pleasant stop along the river.

River House

This building on North Adams houses the offices for the City's Outdoor Program offering canoeing, rafting, and outdoor classes.

Skinner Butte Park

Eugene's most historically significant park and a major east-west link in the riverbank trail system. Skinner Butte has a wide variety of facilities including an interpretive site for the Applegate Trail, a replica of Eugene Skinner's log cabin, hiking opportunities, and a birdseye view of downtown.

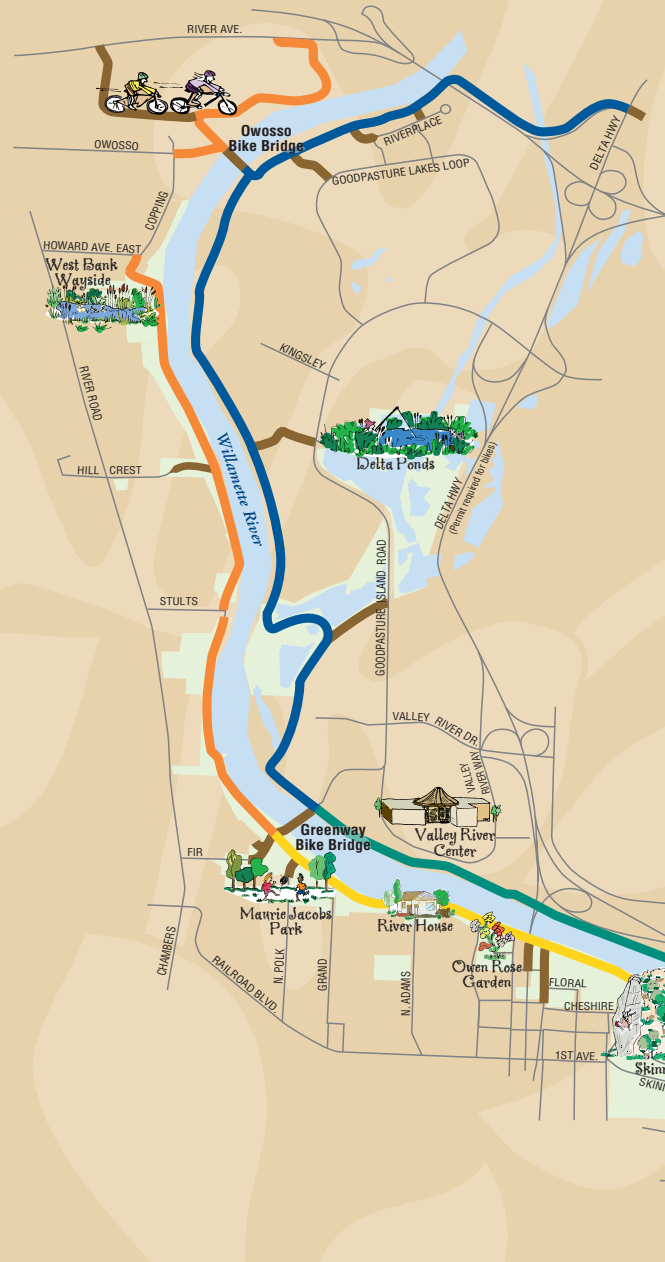

Valley River Center

This shopping complex is located north of the Greenway Bike Bridge.

West Bank Wayside

The West Bank Wayside, adjacent to a small inlet, is a favorite stopping point to watch waterfowl and other wildlife.
